Los Angeles, CA - MakersPlace announced today that globally known actor, film maker and spoken word poet, David Bianchi, is launching a new ground breaking NFT project titled “Break the Bars.” In a powerful spoken word film, David Bianchi and Chris Wood demonstrate the struggles of inner city children and how they dream of a better childhood and a brighter future.

This NFT launch is community driven and is about the reality of inner-city children and their stories delivered through Spinema. (Spinema means Spinning Cinema Through Spoken Word)

The NFT drop is launching through MakersPlace , a Global NFT marketplace, and begins with a premier of the movie in MakersPlace Decentraland Stadium (DCL) on September 23, 2021, with the Seven-day auction beginning on September 24, 2021. A majority of the proceeds are allocated for New Earth Foundation and Charitas Charity as well as honoring the memory of Jin Woo.

The Break The Bars NFT Drop includes:

One of One = The film

Limited editions (4 x 3 = 12 total) = Collector's Cards

Limited editions motion NFT poster (1 of 50) = Fully Animated Movie Poster

“The purpose of this NFT launch is to bring awareness to the struggles of inner city children and share their hopes and dreams for a better childhood and future,” said Bianchi.

For more than 17 years, David Bianchi has produced cinematic spoken word films that have moved the art and film industry. David is now the trademark holder of “Spinema” which is a new art genre.

“When people hear spoken word, they know what to expect, and now when they hear Spinema, they also will know what to expect,” Bianchi added. “High-concept, cinematic immersive experiences told entirely in spoken word poetry are delivered by some of the brightest film directors and poets in the world. I’m thrilled to be one of the pioneers in this type of NFT launch.”
